

STAGE ALL SET FOR PEACE IN IRELAND

WHEAT CROP IN GREENE COUNTY BELOW NORMAL

Yield Averages 12 to 14 Bushels; Normally 18 to 20.

BLAME HOT WEATHER

Predict Bumper Crop of Corn in County This Year

With Greene County farmers in the midst of the threshing season, indications at present are, that the wheat crop in the county, will run true to form with conditions in other parts of the state, and yield a below normal amount of grain. Fred Keeler, Smith-Hughes agricultural expert, who is acting as Greene County Farm Agent for S. Prince, said Saturday that indications with considerable of the wheat threshed, are that the yield will be considerably below normal. It is said that the yield is averaging from 12 to 14 bushels an acre, whereas a normal yield in the county is from 18 to 20 bushels. The hot weather, which matured the crop too soon, is blamed for the subnormal yield this year. Wheat developed too fast not only in this county, but in other counties in the state, because of the unusually warm weather, and it ripened prematurely before the heads were full formed. In many cases the heads will be light, from two to three rows of grain being missing, and in other cases where the heads are full formed, the grains are small. It is anticipated at present time however, that what the wheat lacks in yield, the corn will make up. The hot weather has been developing the corn crop fast, and it is expected that the yield will be unusually large this year.

HALT PROCEEDINGS IN TRIAL OF BALL PLAYERS IN CHICAGO

Long List of Witnesses Will Be Called to Testify.

Chicago, July 9.—With four jurors appointed and sworn in and two others tentatively accepted, proceedings in the trial of the ball players and alleged gamblers accused in the 1919 world series scandal were halted to day until Monday. The list of witnesses to be called by the defense will resemble a roster of major league baseball, according to announcement by Henry A. Berger, a leading attorney for the defense. Berger has asked subpoenas for every member of the 1919 White Sox club and will also ask that every member of the 1919 Cincinnati team which won the series from Chicago be summoned. The umpires who worked in the 1919 series likewise will be asked to appear.

DAVIS CUP TEAM TO SAIL FOR U. S.

New York, July 9.—The British Isles Davis Cup team sail for this country on the Baltic July 16 according to a cablegram received today by the United States Lawn Tennis Association. Maxwell Woodman will act as captain of the British Isles team which includes Gordon Lowe, Neville Turnbull and John B. Gilbert. Thomas H. Hicks, secretary of the Australian Association cables that Norman Peach will be captain and manager of the Australian team. Clarence V. Todd, J. B. Hawkes and E. O. Anderson make up the team which left Sydney June 9 aboard the Niagara and will arrive in Toronto to play the Canadians late this month. Newport is the scene of the final match to be held August 18, 19 and 20 and the challenge round at Forest Hills comes Sept. 2, 3 and (Labor Day).

TWO MEN HURT AS AUTO OVERTURNS

Newark, O., July 9.—William W. Grant, grain dealer of 908 West Broad street, Columbus sustained a broken leg and collar bone and is otherwise seriously injured and his companion, D. K. Taylor, also of Columbus, was badly bruised, when their automobile overturned down an embankment at Hebron cemetery last night. The injured men are in the hospital here.

May Succeed Father in Congress.

Mrs. Winifred M. Huck, of Chicago, who, according to reports, will be appointed by Governor Small, of Illinois, to succeed her father, the late Representative William E. Mason, as a member-at-large in Congress. If Mrs. Huck is appointed to a seat in the House it will be the first time that two women have occupied such positions in the history of Congress. Miss Alice M. Robertson is the present woman member of the House. Mrs. Huck is the wife of Robert W. Huck, Chicago, civil engineer. She has four children.

TWO ARE BITTEN BY HORSE; HURTS BELIEVED SERIOUS

Animal Thought to Have Contracted Case of Rabies.

Youngstown, O., July 9.—Two men, A. B. Gassney and Douglas H. Hopkins, both of this city were bitten by a horse said to be owned by Emil Marto, an ice cream peddler. The horse is thought to have contracted rabies as the result of the intense heat of the past few days. Thursday afternoon as Gassney was passing in front of the plant of the Youngstown Sanitary Milk Company the horse which was tied in front of the plant reached over and bit him on the neck. This morning Hopkins was bitten on the arm in the same vicinity.

The injuries of the two men are reported to be very painful. Gassney received the more severe wound it was stated. Officials of the milk company of which both bitten men are employees stated that Gassney's wounds did not appear to be serious Thursday but during the night it was reported that he suffered untold agonies. Both men are under the care of physicians.

TO START BUILDING STADIUM AT ONCE

Columbus, July 9.—Work on the Ohio State University stadium will be started at once, it was decided after a meeting of the university board of trustees, which approved the award of the contract, made Thursday morning by the stadium building committee to the E. H. Latham Co., Columbus. The contract was let for the entire structure, despite the fact that the bid, $1,391,180, is $300,000 more than the total amount subscribed. "We will be able to complete the entire seating capacity of the stadium as planned with the funds now at hand," stadium officials said, "and will take care of the other portions of the work as funds come in both from subscriptions and from receipts from athletic contests."

HEART TROUBLE NEW VALID CLAIM

Columbus, O., July 9.—When the state industrial commission authorized that an award be paid out of the state insurance fund to the widow of G. W. Gardner, Lorain, the commission for the first time classified heart failure as a valid claim for an award under the Ohio workmen's compensation act. After running down a 20-foot stairway to turn off the gas under boilers when a steam pipe burst at the Lorain plant of the National Tube company, Gardner fell dead. The commission denied compensation to two women who claimed to be widows of Robert Kruse, colored, Youngstown steel worker.

U. S. RELATION TO ANGLO-JAP TREATY TALKED

England May Propose Conference Between Three Nations.

London, July 9.—Statesmen attending the imperial dominion conference were today gathered at Chequers, Premier George's country estate, discussing the Anglo-Japanese alliance with particular reference to America's relation to that pact. In well informed quarters it was believed possible today that Great Britain may take the initiative in proposing a conference between the three countries and China upon the far eastern question. While officials expressed the view that America would accept such a proposal favorably they declared that thus far no suggestion to that effect has been made. Dr. Wellington Choo, former Chinese minister to the United States declared today that while he had discussed the subject informally with Lord Curzon, British foreign minister, Britain had made no proposals. He added he had received no instructions from his government regarding China's attitude toward a conference between the four powers.

RETAIN DIRECTOR AND EMPLOYEES OF WOOSTER STATION

Will Continue to Operate as Separate State Institution.

Columbus, July 9.—Director C. G. Williams and all other employees at the Wooster experiment station are to be retained indefinitely. This public announcement was made after the first session of the new board of control of the institution consisting of the Ohio state university trustees and state director of agriculture Taber. The board tabled the resignation tendered by Director Williams several months ago. It was decided that the experiment station shall continue to operate as a separate state institution and will not be merged with the college of agriculture, Ohio State University.

DIVORCES DECREASE SINCE PROHIBITION

Marietta, O., July 9.—With referees Crabbe and Vostead officiating, Kid Divorce in Washington county has taken the count. Of 116 divorces granted during the fiscal year ending June 30, not a single one named drunkenness as the cause. In 1920, one separation was granted for this cause; in 1919, three; in 1918, four and in 1917, six men lost happy homes as the price of tipping. As compared with 1920 record five. Only a third of these were asked by men, the female of the species apparently having a more powerful yearning for freedom. While these 116 divorces were being granted, 376 marriage licenses were distributed to cupid's reinforcement.

HEAT AND STORMS TAKE TOLL OF ELEVEN

Cleveland, July 9.—With deaths due to heat and electrical storms throughout Ohio in the past 24 hours mounting to 11 and prostrations going into the scores, Ohio generally had but slight relief today from record breaking scorching weather. Of the dead two were struck by lightning in Cleveland.

Another heat victim was Minnie, the Indian elephant at Brookside zoo. Considerable damage to buildings and telephone wires resulted from the electrical and wind storm that swept northern Ohio.

POWER PLANT IS DAMAGED BY STORM

Marion, O., July 9.—A thunderbolt put the new power plant of the C. D. and M. railway company at Scioto out of commission early today, so far as commercial power was concerned and Marion's two newspapers were without electric power to operate their linotype machines for hours. Street cars were able fairly to drag along the rails. The storm broke late last night and was accompanied by much lightning and torrential rains, several houses being struck.

NO TAXATION RELIEF FOR MAN WITH SMALL INCOME

Program of Secretary of Treasury Mellon Calls for Reduction of Sur Taxes Above 33 Per Cent on Incomes Above $75,000

Washington, July 9.—The individual with the small income, the ultimate consumer, need anticipate no relief from taxation in the tax revision program Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is seeking to work out with Republican leaders of congress, members of the senate finance committee were reliably informed today. It is the administration's purpose only to provide for a reduction of surtaxes above 33 percent on personal incomes above $75,000 which Mellon plans to prove by treasury statistics are not yielding the large returns generally supposed. Senator Penrose agrees with Mellon that the higher surtaxes ought to be scaled down to the "collection point." If this is done, they contend the individual with the large income will not seek to evade tax levies by investing in tax free securities.

Retention of some of the minor taxes, such as those on amusements and soda water fountain receipts which vitally concern the "little fellow" is advocated by Mellon, according to information Republican senators are receiving from him. While three cents instead of two cents letter postage also is proposed by him as a revenue raiser which he estimated would produce $70,000,000 a year. Enactment of a flat rate income tax of 15 percent on corporations, intended to raise $400,000,000 annually and of a stamp tax on bank checks which he estimated would yield $90,000,000 a year, and also described as part of the Mellon tax plan it is understood. Repeal of the excess profits tax and rejection of the sales tax is another phase of it. President Harding is said by Republican senators with whom he has discussed the tax situation recently to be planning a message to congress which he hopes will prepare the American people for the starkly unvarnished fact facing the administration that any reduction in the gross amount of taxation in the near future is highly improbable. It is considered likely that the president may stress this fact in the message.

TESTIFIES MRS. KABER WANTED HUSBAND DEAD

Agreed to Pay Gang of Assassins Five Thousand Dollars.

Cleveland, July 9.—Mrs. Catherine Eva Kaber agreed to pay a gang of Italians $5,000 to kill her husband, according to the confession of Mrs. Ermilia Colavito, the "poison queen" introduced in evidence today at the trial of the woman charged with first degree murder as alleged arch conspirator in the plot which resulted in the murder of Daniel Kaber, wealthy publisher.

Faced by the "poison queen" the accused woman herself confessed she had purchased "magic medicine" to "make her husband sick." Detective Phil Mooney of the Cleveland police department testified.

Mooney described the meeting of the accused woman and the "poison queen" after the former was brought back to Cleveland from New York where she was arrested following a two year's investigation of Kaber's murder.

"Mrs. Kaber said: 'There is the woman' when faced by Colavito in police headquarters and then broke down and cried," said the detective. The "poison queen" in Mrs. Kaber's presence confessed the accused woman had obtained "magic medicine" from her to "cure her husband of his bad habits," according to Mooney.

SEEK SLAYER OF MAN IN CANTON

Canton, O., July 9.—A county wide search is on this morning for John Burris, who, last night, called Julius Spannax from a coffee house and shot him through the brain and escaped. Spannax died instantly. Burris entered the coffee house, went to a table where Spannax was sitting with some friends, and said, "I want you, Julius." Spannax followed him to the street, when Burris pulled a revolver from his pocket and shot once, then fled.

FIREMAN INJURED

Baltimore, July 9.—Seven firemen were seriously injured in a collision between fire trucks rushing to the scene of a general alarm fire early today. First reports had it that five of the firemen had met death in the crash. The injured were taken to hospitals.

Quezon Coming to Plead for Philippines.

Manuel Quezon, President of the Senate in the Philippines, announced that he will leave soon for the United States, accompanied by Isuro Gabalon, resident Commissioner in Washington. He states that the trip will be purely personal, but rumor has it that his purpose here is to counteract any unfavorable impressions regarding independence that may have been disseminated recently in the United States. It is also reported that he will attack any portion of the Woods-Forbes report which may be unfavorable to the Filipinos.

TRUCE WILL GO INTO EFFECT AT NOON ON MONDAY

Peace in War-torn Erin to Come at Last is Belief.

TROUBLE OCCURS

Outbreak in Cork Mar General Tranquility.

Cork, July 9.—In spite of the truce virtually reigning in the Irish capital, fresh bloodshed broke out here today. John Meloney, a former soldier, now a sergeant in the employ of the government, was taken out of his home and shot by masked men. Almost simultaneously an attack was made on the government barracks at Emily O'Connell's house was burned.

KING RECEIVES DELEGATE

Lord Middleton Received by British Monarch in London Saturday.

London, July 9.—King George today received Lord Middleton in audience. The southern unionist delegate who attended yesterday's historic making Irish armistice conference at Dublin hastened to London overnight for the purpose, it is believed of reporting personally to the monarch.

Meanwhile the British government was busily preparing for an official visit to the capital by Eamonn DeValera, president of the Irish republic. The morning press made a certainty what last evening newspapers had only dared hope to predict, namely, that the stage is set for an official armistice between Britain and Sinn Fein, to go into effect at noon Monday and to be followed by a general Irish peace conference here in London.

In official circles it was not doubted that DeValera will be here for a few days. It was made plain that he will have all possible facilities and will be permitted to bring whom ever he desires. No conditions of any sort are to be imposed upon the Sinn Fein chieftain in connection with his visit. Interviewed at Holyhead while en route for London, Lord Middleton said:

"The object of the Dublin conference was to clear up matters before the London conference could be held. So far as our (the unionists) part is concerned, we have discharged our office and created an atmosphere favorable to negotiations between Premier Lloyd George and Eamonn DeValera. "The feeling on our side is overwhelmingly in favor of a settlement. It is now entirely a question between Lloyd George and DeValera."

Lord Middleton expressed the belief that DeValera's terms will be acceptable to the British premier. Dublin, July 9.—Though news from Cork early today indicated that the negotiations for an armistice in Ireland had not stopped the bitter warfare between Sinn Fein and government forces, the truce which is to go into effect at noon Monday, was virtually in force here and over the greater part of Erin.

For the first time in years the streets of the capital were not patrolled by government troops today. The city, which even yesterday still had the aspect of a forbidden military camp was permeated today with an atmosphere of friendliness and peace as is almost unknown to the present generation of inhabitants.

The thoroughfares and public squares were devoid of the usual squads of heavily armed British soldiers to be jeered at by hostile crowds. Indeed, so wonderful is the change in the population's temper that today Sinn Feiners were seen openly fraternizing with British soldiers.

The general feeling in well informed circles here today was that a week will be sufficient to complete the preliminaries of the conference in London which is to decide whether the truce will be followed by permanent peace.

Dealers arrived at the Mansion House early and immediately conferred with the heads of the Irish republican army about arranging for making the truce effective Monday noon. It is believed that all Irish political prisoners will soon be released, the curfew revoked and courtmartial be stopped.

General Collins, commander in chief of the Sinn Fein army, understood to reach the remotest districts of Ireland with instructions that hostilities must cease all over Ireland before noon Monday. Orders to this effect are pouring out over the wires throughout the island and are being taken by couriers to the remote regions.

Serious Obstacle To Rail Settlement Now Arises

P. R. R. Announces It Will Conduct Its Own Negotiations With Employes on An Open Shop Basis—Fear Effect on Other Roads.

Chicago, July 9.—Union officials and observers of the trend of the affairs in the railroad labor situation today regarded the action of the Pennsylvania railroad in openly declaring that it would conduct its own negotiations with its employes on an open shop basis as presenting a serious obstacle to the harmonious settlement of the railway labor controversy.

Attempts are being made by officials of the various railway labor organizations to bring about conferences with railway heads between now and Sept. 1 at which definite agreement as to the working rules and conditions will be reached. The unions have made acceptance of the wage out which became effective July 1, contingent upon a satisfactory outcome of these conferences.

PETITIONS MAY BE FILED UNTIL 4:30 O'CLOCK SATURDAY

Paul H. Cresswell, Clerk of the Board of Elections, will remain, either in the office of the election board or in the County Auditor's office in the Court House until 4:30 o'clock central standard time Saturday for the accommodation of possible candidates for city commission, who want to file their petitions within the time limit provided by the city charter.

Twelve o'clock Saturday night, is the last hour that petitions can be filed in order to bring candidates before the primary, according to the city charter. The positions of city commissioners, three to elect, will be the only offices up at the primary August 9. Mayoralty candidates in the village outside of Xenia will come before the regular election by petition and will not be nominated at the primary.

TO STAGE QUOT TOURNAMENT SATURDAY

At six o'clock, standard time, Saturday evening a tournament will be held at the quot grounds between Xenia and Centerville and at eight o'clock, Centerville will play Millersville, the usual series of 12 games. O. C. Custer will act as captain. The last time the locals met Centerville the latter club defeated Xenia so the latter are out to win and there will be some close pitching in this contest. Visitors are welcome.

OVER 1,500 ENJOY ANNUAL PICNIC

Special cars carried Xenia's delegation of Dayton Power & Light Company employes to the annual picnic held at Kikare Park, Dayton, Friday. More than 1,500 employes of the Company from Dayton, Xenia, Wilmington and other districts attended the annual picnic. Games and contests were on the day's program, with a big basket dinner and the awarding of prizes and dancing in the evening.

Refusal of the Pennsylvania to consider itself bound by any rules or orders of the United States Railway labor board or the federated shop crafts, it is feared, will cause other roads to adopt a firmer stand against bargaining with the labor organizations. The Pennsylvania made clear its attitude late yesterday when representatives of the shop crafts on the Pennsylvania charged before the U. S. Railway labor board that rules of the board were being violated by that road. E. T. Whiter, counsel for the Pennsylvania, replied by criticizing openly several of the rulings of the board and by declaring "we will conduct our own negotiations in our own way."

FORMER MAYOR OF CAMBRIDGE GIVEN ONE TO TWENTY YEARS

Cambridge, July 9.—Former Mayor Jacob J. Calvert, found guilty on a charge of shooting at Thomas McNiece with intent to wound, was sentenced to serve from one to 20 years in the state penitentiary. Judge Charles S. Turnbaugh passed sentence in overruling a motion for a new trial.

McNiece, a Barnesville garage owner, was shot when Cambridge officials fired on his automobile while searching for whisky runners on the National Pike east of Cambridge on the night of March 11.

Calvert was the first to be tried. Others indicted are L. R. Campbell, former safety director; John A. Long, police chief; F. M. Hardesty, deputy game warden and Don Whitacre, driver of the automobile used by the city officials. Attorneys for Calvert announced that Calvert's case would be carried to higher courts.

TERMS MADE PUBLIC

Dublin, July 9.—The official terms of the armistice under which all fighting in Ireland will come to an end on Monday were made public here today.

Under the terms of the truce the Sinn Feiners agreed to cease all attacks against British forces. The use of arms by Sinn Feiners will be prohibited. Military maneuvers of all kinds by the Irish republican army will cease. The Sinn Feiners further agree to abstain from interfering with all public and private property. Any action that would tend to disturb the peace and necessitate military intervention will be banned.

On their side the British military authorities agreed to cease all military raids and searches. Military activity will be restricted to supporting the police in carrying out their normal duties. The curfew restrictions are removed when the armistice goes into effect at noon Monday. Dispatch on further reinforcements from England has been suspended. Police functions in Dublin hereafter will be carried solely by police and military will not be used there at all.

DINNER STORIES

"Robson, do you know why you are like a donkey?" the jester queried.

"Like a donkey?" echoed Robson, opening his eyes wide. "I don't."

"Because your better half is stubbornness itself."

The jester pleased Robson immensely, for he at once saw the opportunity for a glorious dig at his wife. So when he got home he said:

"Dear, do you know why I am like a donkey?"

He waited a moment, expecting his wife to give it up. But she didn't.

"I suppose it's because you were born so."

One of the tellers in a Columbus bank says he has a customer, a teacher, who is the wittiest thing yet.

"We make it a practice to give out new bills whenever we are able to send the old ones back to the government," said the teller, "and once when this customer appeared I apologized that I was unable to give her new bills, and asked her if she had any fear of microbes."

"I don't really think there are any on this money," said the teacher; "no microbes would attempt to live on my salary."

A lecturer was talking on the drink question.

"Now, supposing I had a pail of water and a pail of beer on this platform and then brought on a donkey, which of the two would he take?"

"He'd take the water," came a voice from the gallery.

"And why would he take the water?" asked the lecturer.

"Because you would beat him to the beer," was the reply.

The passengers for short trips, and by the time his last trip came was absolutely fed up by being asked silly questions.

He told his passengers, two ladies, that on no account were they to speak to him, that he could not talk and give his attention to his machine, and that they must keep silent.

Up they went and the airman quite enjoyed himself. He looped the loop, and practiced all sorts of stunts to his own satisfaction with no interruption from his passengers until he felt a touch on his arm.

"What is it?" he said, impatiently.

"I'm sorry to trouble you," said a voice behind, "and I know I ought not to speak. I do apologize sincerely, but I can't help it. I thought perhaps you ought to know Annie's gone!"

"It is an established fact," said the lecturer, "that the sun is gradually but surely losing its heat, and in the course of 70,000,000 years it will be exhausted, consequently this world of ours will be dead, and, like the moon, unable to support any form of life."

The head and shoulders of an excited member of the audience rose above those of his fellows.

"Pardon me, professor," he cried. "How many years did you say it would be before this calamity overtakes us?"

"Seventy millions, sir," said the professor.

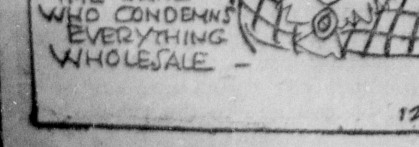

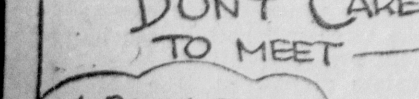

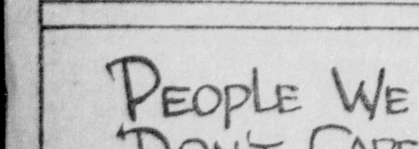

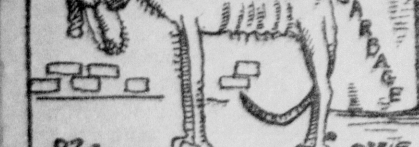

"Thank heavens!" gasped the interrogator, sinking back exhausted in his seat. "I thought you said 7,000,000!"

'NO CHANGE' SAYS U. S. WEATHERMAN

Washington, July 9.—The U. S. Weather bureau refused to come to the rescue of a sufferer and sweltering country today with any prediction or promise of a break in the heat wave which already has caused many deaths throughout the United States.

"There is not much change," was the weather forecaster's doleful message. "There may be a slight lessening of the temperature in the Middle Atlantic and New England regions tonight with possibility of local showers tomorrow but if any relief is provided it probably will be of a temporary nature."

WINDSTORM LAYS SECTION WASTE

Akron, O., July 9.—In less than 30 seconds Friday evening a windstorm and cloud burst cut a swath one half mile wide between springdale and Seasons near Wyoga lake on the A. B. C. interurban to Cleveland uprooted trees and farm buildings and laid waste hundreds of acres in addition to putting the N. O. T. line from Akron to Cleveland out of commission for five hours. The territory affected is four miles southwest of Hudson.

ICE FAMINE NOW THREATENS DAYTON

Dayton, O., July 9.—Following a conference between F. B. Hunt, head of the Miami Ice Delivery Company, and City Manager Barber, Dayton was asked to conserve her ice supply as Hunt declared there is a possible famine in sight. Since June 10, he says, a reserve supply of 14,000 tons has been called upon with the result that there is but 5,200 tons in storage. The supply may be further depleted it is said should brewery workers, making ice, go out with other brewery workers affected by a strike last night. Hunt says efforts to buy ice within 400 miles of Dayton failed.

What Paris Is Wearing

If a hat wishes to be qualified as decidedly "French" it must be trimmed with cherries and glossy green leaves and the battle will be half won.

Many new dresses have widely flaring skirts, the fullness placed on the side while front and back remain just as flat as possible.

Silk fringes are very much in evidence just now. e see them on dresses, coats, hats, hand bags and even gloves.

The apron-like panel is a smart feature in many Spring dresses.

Yellow will be a favorite shade this summer.

Very chic is the new sleeveless coat showing the sleeves of the frock. Of course in this case, dress and coat are fashioned to match.

Plaid taffeta is used for sport skirts.

Very smart the linen frock with sleeves and sash of chiffon.

It is estimated that the annual loss by fire in the United States is $250,000,000, while 15,000 lives are lost.

TELEPHONE RATES IN XENIA HINGE ON WHETHER FRANCHISE CONTAINS RATE CLAUSE ACCORDING TO COURT RULING

Will the telephone rates in Xenia be lowered as a result of a recent decision of the state utilities commission in permitting rate increases and reverting them to the original franchise rates?

This is the question that is worrying city officials. Bell Telephone Company officials, the Chamber of Commerce and Attorney C. L. Darlington, special counsel retained by the Chamber in fighting the recent raise in rates applied by the Telephone Company through permission of the State Utilities Commission.

Indications, Saturday afternoon were that the question would hinge on the finding of the original franchise of the telephone company in an attempt to learn if rates were fixed in the franchise. Telephone officials are hoping that the franchise fixes a maximum rate, as many franchisees do, but admit that there is a possibility that the rates might have been fixed at the time the franchise was granted, by a special rate ordinance.

In the latter event, it is said, the decision of the supreme court would not affect the rates here and the culmination of the rate controversy that has been worrying along since last fall, would still hang on the decision of the state utilities commission pending the result of the personal invoice and investigation of that bureau's engineers.

In the event that a maximum rate was fixed in the franchise which is a contract not to be scoffed at, the rates for telephone service in Xenia and Greene County, would revert back to the rate fixed in the franchise, ignoring all of the several raises that have been made especially within the last few years, and would require the Telephone Company to pay back to its patrons, the amount of difference they have paid into the Company in increases over the amount fixed by the franchise.

H. W. Cleaver, manager of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company in this city, said Saturday, that he did not believe there was any rate fixed in the original franchise. Mr. Cleaver said he was basing his belief on the statement of a Dayton official of the Company, who said it was his impression that the Xenia franchise did not contain a rate fixing clause. Mr. Cleaver admitted that if such a rate was fixed by franchise, that it would cost the company thousands of dollars in paying back money to patrons collected on the several increases put in effect by the Company. He also admitted that if the rate is fixed by the franchise that there is no recourse from the supreme court decision, as the franchise stands valid as any contract.

C. L. Darlington, special counsel for the Chamber of Commerce in the last rate controversy said, Saturday afternoon, that the question hinges upon whether the original franchise fixed the rates. He said that he had requested City Solicitor J. A. Finney to look up the original franchise and that it is his belief that the price of service will revert to the original rate, if such a rate is found to be included in the franchise.

City Solicitor J. A. Finney, said Saturday afternoon that he had not yet obtained the franchise to determine whether that contract fixed the rates. Mr. Finney said it would not be unusual for the franchise not to include a fixed rate, and that the rates might have been fixed by an ordinance, drawn separate to the franchise, at the time the franchise was drawn. Until the franchise is examined, it is not known how long it has been running.

Four of the above named candidates were assured of filing, Friday. Dr. H. R. Hawkins said Friday that he had no knowledge of the petitions being circulated for him, that he had not authorized them and that he did not know whether he would accept the nomination if the required number of names was secured.

The fact that the petition for Dr. Hawkins was filed, Saturday, is believed to be assurance that he gave his sanction to the use of his name, and thereby became an avowed candidate for the office, as it is against the law to file a petition for any candidate without the latter's consent.

Indications of a five-corner race, gave promise Saturday of increasing interest in the August Primary, August 9.

WILL ISSUE NEW PHONE DIRECTORY

The new Ohio Bell Telephone Company directory for Xenia and Greene county will be distributed next month according to the announcement of H. W. Cleaver, local manager of Company.

The new book is about to go to press, and in order that it will be correct, the company is requesting that patrons see that their names and addresses are listed correctly, and corrections of mistakes are welcomed.

Patrons having corrections to make should call Main 600 and ask for the Directory Clerk. The last directory was issued in August 1920, and a number of changes in patrons and numbers have been effected since then.

DAYTON CAR STRIKE STILL IN EFFECT

Dayton, July 9.—Dayton will walk to church tomorrow and maybe business again next week, judging from the street car strike situation today. No indication that cars will be running Sunday is evident as it is said few men have applied for jobs and the strikers continue to hold out. They have made a proposition for 52 cents an hour wage instead of the 45 cent rate as proposed by the companies. The men were getting 62 cents an hour.

Another strike is on. The brewery worker went out last night in a dispute over a wage scale. Few are affected.

SUMMER CAMP FOR BOYS NEAR XENIA OPENS IN AUGUST

Camp Tecumseh, a summer camp for boys, located about three miles from Yellow Springs, and eleven miles from Xenia in a beautiful forest, will be opened on August 24, for a period of ten days, according to Austin J. Black, of this city, who is head of the movement which started the camp movement.

A genuine outing in the out of doors, living "the simple life" with good drinking water, tents and the best of food provided, will be enjoyed by the large number of boys who will take advantage of the vacation, according to Mr. Black.

Swimming lessons, life saving, camp craft, wood craft, and canoeing instructions will all be given without additional expense. A fixed program will be followed each day, including physical culture, games, over night hikes, each boy preparing his own meal. Each boy who attends the camp will be given a list of things needed in enlisting.

Boys from 12 to 16 years of age will be enlisted for the camp. A guarantee of $2 will be required when enlisting. Applications should be in the hands of Austin J. Black, 615 N. Galloway Street, Xenia, on or before July 15.

HOPE TO DRAFT CODE FOR BUILDING TO BE ADOPTED FOR XENIA

Action on the adoption of a building code and a system of regulation of building movement, bordering on a town planning system, is expected at the next regular meeting of the City Commission as a result of a meeting held at the Commission Chamber Friday night.

At this meeting, the Chamber of Commerce committee appointed to aid in the establishment of a proper building code for Xenia, and composed of H. S. LeSourd, Dr. A. M. Patterson, D. E. Anderson, Ed S. Davidson and J. M. Fletcher, met with members of the City Commission and discussed plans for the new code.

The state code, regulating fire hazards and the erection of buildings without respect to fire hazards will have to be adopted by the city, on recommendation of the Ohio Inspection Bureau of Columbus which fixes fire insurance classification and rates. The other code, providing local building restrictions, will be drafted by the local committee and adopted.

An idea of the type of code that will possibly be adopted has been gleaned by the committee from similar codes in other cities. A code in effect in Dayton, makes it necessary for two thirds of the residents in residential districts to vote yes before a garage, factory, lumber yard or similar unsightly building can be built in the section. It is believed that regulations similar to that will be recommended by the local committee.

J. M. Fletcher, who was formerly in the plumbing business here will draw up as part of the building code program, plumbing regulations, involving sanitation and sewage, which code must be followed out as regards plumbing in all instances. The other four men in the committee will devote their attention particularly to the building restrictions part of the new code.

While it is possible that the committee will not have the code drawn up for presentation to the City Commission for adoption or rejection at the next regular meeting, it is hoped to have the work completed by that time, and if not, as soon afterward as possible.

ELECTRICAL WORKERS STRIKE. Chicago, July 9.—Three hundred and eighty electrical workers employed in the lighting plants that serve the city of Chicago went on strike today, demanding wage increases amount to $50 per month. The strike may result in darkened streets.

PRECINCT BOUNDARY LINES PRINTED FOR USE OF CITIZENS

Precinct boundary lines for the Xenia city, have been printed for fourteen newly created precincts in dissemination among voters, according to the announcement of Paul H. Cresswell, clerk of the Board of Elections.

The information regarding the precincts, outlining each precinct carefully, so that voters will not be confused as to which precinct they are in, has been printed and sheets giving the boundaries can be obtained from Mr. Cresswell at the office of the county auditor in the court house.

The new boundary lines printed matter will also be left at a number of Xenia stores so that it can be obtained by voters. Boundary lines of county precincts will be completed next week and given out to the public as soon as possible, so that it is assured that the information will be distributed before time of the primary, August 9.

BEGIN ENCAMPMENT.

Canton, O., July 9.—With about 2,000 delegates and visitors in attendance Ohio Odd Fellows today began work in their annual encampment here. One of the features of the encampment will be the parade, scheduled for Tuesday, in which the Akron Patriarchs Militant, the largest in the United States, will participate.

SERVICE TRUCK TO ACCOMPANY AUTOS

More complete plans for the picnic of the Greene County Automobile club to be held in Dayton next Wednesday were laid at a committee meeting held, Friday evening.

The machines will travel in squads of eight with a lieutenant in charge of each squad, and Chas. Cross will act as captain of the entire fleet. A service truck will accompany the machines to be ready in case of trouble and the route now decided upon to be pursued will lead the party to the N. C. R. through Oakwood and Patterson road instead of the usual Dayton-Xenia pike. Each machine will be labelled and numbered and must keep its own place in the fleet.

GUARDSMEN OVERCOME.

Baltimore, Md., July 9.—The 800 Maryland national guardsmen encamped at Camp Albert C. Richie were wondering today whether their officers would send them swimming or take them back to the drill field and rifle range where yesterday 104 of their number were overcome by the heat. The mercury went slightly over the 100 mark.

EDWARD BOK GIVES FUND FOR $10,000 ANNUAL PRIZE FOR GREATEST SERVICE TO PHILADELPHIA.

Mr. Edward Bok, of Philadelphia, who for thirty years was editor of the Ladies Home Journal, retiring from that position a year or so ago, is a very rich man, and has the good sense to appreciate the fact that money, like fertilizer, is only of any account when spread around. The late Andrew Carnegie was also long a living illustration of this principle. God bless the memory of all such philanthropists.

Mr. Bok's great service consists in the establishment of a Trust Fund which gives an annual prize of $10,000 to the person who has rendered the greatest service to the City of Philadelphia within the year.

"Mr. Bok has deposited with the Girard Trust Co., negotiable securities to the amount of $200,000, yielding an annual income of considerably over $10,000.

The award of $10,000 is to be made each year to that resident, man or woman, of the metropolitan district of Pennsylvania its suburbs or vicinity, who, during the preceding year, shall have done an act or rendered a service best calculated to advance the largest interests of Philadelphia—taking the spirit of the Nobel Prize and of the proposed Woodrow Wilson Prize and applying it to a city.

The trust of the Award is to be administered by a board of trustees of nine residents of the metropolitan district of Philadelphia. The services of all of these men are, of course, gratuitous.

The announcement that the prize had been established was made public by Dr. W. W. Keen, chairman of the Board of Trustees, who said that the first award will be made either in the spring or summer of 1922. The presentation will be at a public meeting.

The statement was signed by Dr. Keen as chairman. When giving it out he elucidated the scope of the service. "It must be anything that advances the interests of the public," he said. "It may be a book that teaches practical humanitarianism, it may be an act that eases the lives of many people, or it may be a famous painting that brings great credit to the city of Philadelphia. But it must be, in the minds of the members of the board, of district service to Philadelphia.

THE FOCH TRIBUTE.

The Fourth of July message of Marshal Ferdinand Foch to the American Nation is far more than a mere felicitation or a passing courtesy. It is the scholarly summing up, by the world's greatest living soldier, of the American effort—the "unparalleled effort in every branch of national activity."

The great Frenchman's tribute to the American Army and the American people has both historical and military value. In this July of 1921 Marshal Foch looks back to the dark days of July, 1918, when the Boche was smashing his way to the Marne for the second time.

Through the perspective of three years he sees that dark situation grow lighter as American troops poured into the breach and sums it up as "A prodigious effort of an entire nation before which the enemy remained astounded and which foiled all his plans."

Three years ago today Marshal Foch knew that the Germans expected to make Paris within a month. The Germans expected to be dictating a German peace, and a hard peace it would have been, by September 1, 1918. A few days before his death the former German Chancellor Herting said:

"At the beginning of July, 1918, I was convinced, I confess it, that before September 1 our adversaries would send us peace proposals. We expected grave events in Paris by the end of July. That was on the 15th. On the 18th even the most optimistic among us understood that all was lost. The history of the world was played out in three days."

Those "three days" began July 15, the Second Battle of Marne, the day when the American regular army divisions and Marines stood fast at Chateau Thierry. At dawn on July 18 the American-French counter-attack ripped into the flank of the German salient, crumpled it from Soissons south and the long German retreat that was never stopped began.

These things were in the mind of Marshal Foch when he wrote his Fourth of July message. He was looking back at those tense and terrible days of early July, 1918. He was living over again the hours when the Atlantic lanes were crowded with troop-ships rushing to his help.

The speed and the terrible energy with which America came, after her belated entrance, lingers in the mind of the Marshal of France. He marvels still at the coming of that army that grew from 300,000 men in France in March to 2,000,000 in November, 1918, "that army, too, so quickly here from so far away."

Nearly three years have gone since the tide turned. The American effort loses nothing of its impressiveness in perspective. The message of the Marshal of France places it as the most impressive military effort ever made by a free people.

WASHINGTON IN LONDON.

The statue of Washington first placed on the grounds of the National Gallery in London is the first one of a "foreigner," it is announced, to be put in Trafalgar Square. But Lord Curzon was not wide of the mark when he accepted this gift of Virginia in the name of his nation as the effigy of "one of the greatest Englishmen who ever lived." It was because Washington cherished the traditions of freedom and of human right from his English ancestry and beheld these fundamental institutions defied by a German sovereign who oppressed all Englishmen that he led the protest that gave us forever our independence. He was fighting Britain's battle too, and the fact is recognized today.

It is fitting that Americans in London should find to greet them there "the marble index of a mind" whose first and last thoughts were for his countrymen. It is well that at the heart of the capital of the British Empire there should stand for the eyes of all nations the permanent reminder that the father of his country, though he fought against a tyrannous monarchy as other Englishmen have fought, was the friend of England too.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF THE SUMMER OF 1921.

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

A number of Xenians took their departure this morning for Winona Lake, Indiana. The party consisted of Mrs. James A. Kelly, and sons, Elmer and Arthur; Mrs. George Kelly, and little daughter, Mrs. Charles Jobe, and family, Mr. Fred C. Kelly and Mrs. R. M. Smart. They expect to be absent for a period of several weeks.

At a meeting of the Jamestown council last night the prohibitory ordinance closing the saloons was passed, every one of the six members voting in favor of it. It will go into effect in ten days.

Mr. M. L. Wolf, the popular teller at the Citizen's Bank, is taking his vacation and with his wife and child has gone to Delaware, Ohio, for a two weeks' visit. The force at the bank is a little lonesome since Mr. Wolf took his departure.

The prospects are bright for the future of the Galloway Park. The Xenians who bought the lots at the sale several days ago, are going right ahead with the improvements, and the prospects are for the erection of five or six houses at once.

Ervin Brothers of this city, who have been operating the flour mill at Old Town under a lease as well as their mill in this city are making extensive changes in the business. They have purchased the mill at Old Town, and are taking the machinery for making flour out of the city mill to equip the Old Town mill.

How?

A Simple Answer

AN EDITORIAL ON BUYING

Why is it that today the merchant and the housewife are reading advertising more closely than ever before?

The answer is simple? Each has a buying obligation. Each realizes that by reading the news of styles and price which manufacturers' and merchants' advertising gives relative to commodities the obligation can be wisely and economically fulfilled.

It is the merchant's obligation to buy wisely to fill the needs and wants of the community which he serves. He must offer his customers and prospective customers the best possible values commensurate with possible values commensurate with the buying habits of his community.

How can he do this? He knows that he can serve best by stocking advertised goods.

For he knows that on advertised commodities the manufacturer stakes his reputation for good goods at fair prices, and that he, the merchant, has this guarantee on the advertised merchandise he buys.

And the merchant knows this fact also; he has a given amount of capital to invest in his business. He cannot increase it perhaps. He must make more gross sales in order to stay in business and to constantly better the service which he is expected to give his customers. How can he do it? By turning over that capital more frequently. He buys advertised goods, because advertised goods have popular favor, move more rapidly and enable him to use his capital frequently for greater profit and service.

Here the housewife comes into the picture. She has been accustomed to being asked pretty dear prices for everything during the past several years. This was to be expected for the country's business had to pay war's taxes and drafting of industries to war's activities lowered the production of peace-time merchandise and high prices followed.

Because of this, Mrs. Housewife, and the rest of us, have scrutinized values pretty closely and endeavored to know the whys and wherefores of quality and other points relative to the merchandise we bought.

We have come to watch advertisements closely. The news it gives us on this matter.

So today advertising is the guide the very safe and sure price to the good value we expect in the things we buy.

We will be a wise buyer, and an economical buyer who reads advertising closely and selects merchandise, the good values of which are told thru advertising on the printed pages of the newspapers and magazines.

Charles Edward Waite.

Charles Edward Waite, son of Edward and Fannie Waite was born Oct. 20, 1890 at Batavia, Ohio, Clermont County.

He met with an accident while bathing in the Miami River near his home and was drowned July 4, 1921, aged 30 years, 8 months, 14 days.

He was united in marriage to Grace E. McGlasson, Dec. 22, 1913 to this union was born three sons Clinton, Forest and Robert, Clinton having preceded him to the Great Beyond, likewise his Mother, sister and Brother.

In early life Charles united with the Methodist Church of Afton, O. Charles was a highly respected citizen, well known and loved in every walk of life, he was a loving father and faithful husband esteeming the fellowship and joy of his home above that of any other.

He will be sadly missed by his Father, wife and children and hosts of relatives and friends. He stood manfully for the right a truthful and honest man.

Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth ye saith the spirit that they may rest from their labors, for their works do follow them. Sad and sudden was the call Of one so dearly loved by all There was no chance to say farewell To those he loved so well. 7-8

TO RE-ENTER SHOW GAME WITH ACT

Low Wooley, one time premier acrobat of this city, who won much fame while in circuses and on the stage is preparing to re-enter the show game, it is said.

Mr. Wooley is now practicing a Novelty Act with "Spud" Glass of Jamestown, the rehearsals being carried on in that village and they expect to go into vaudeville with the act in the fall.

Mr. Wooley developed his talents as an acrobat here, and in company with Ben Piers also of Xenia, they toured the country for some time as Wooley and Piers. Their acrobatic specialties were considered unusually good, and they also had a novelty to present, often time using a comedy bar act. Mr. Piers is now director of physical activities at Bomberger Park, Dayton, having retired from the show game. Before leaving the stage he appeared for some time with Lawrence Morgan of this city, in a comedy acrobatic act on vaudeville under the name of the Peers.

FATIGUE.

When worn from toiling in the sun, from baling hay and cutting ice, the rest that comes when day is done, is surely, surely worth the price. I labored hard and long this week, I sprung new curves in honest toil; the neighbors heard my hinges creak as though they needed castor oil. The neighbors saw me hoe my beans, and cultivate the growing spuds, as they rolled by in limousines, all dolled up in their costly duds. The neighbors rode along the shore and up and down the asphalt pave, and found all mortal things a bore, as dour and dismal as the grave. And when the evening came at last it bored them so they had to weep; they went to bed and lay aghast, and cursed because they couldn't sleep. And I, fatigued by honest toil, found peace and comfort in repose; I'd left my trademark on the soil, out where the pallid pumpkin grows. Oh, I had done the best I could to show a line of sterling worth; I felt I had achieved some good to vindicate my stay on earth. And that's a feeling most sublime for any man to entertain, to know he has not wasted time, or let a day get by in vain. And so a spirit calm was mine, when to my couch night saw me creep; there I indulged in fifty-nine varieties of balmy sleep.

WOMAN'S DUTY TO VOTE IS WORD

"Christian Citizenship" was the main topic of the discussion at the meeting of the A. C. Turrell W. C. T. U. held at the home of Mrs. Eliza Carruthers, on West Market street, Friday afternoon.

The members discussed the importance of the ballot box in gaining right standards in the country's laws. Woman's duty to vote for these principles was also clearly brought out at the meeting.

A report of the State Sunday School convention held last week at Columbus was given at the meeting. An important phase of the convention, the topic of "Teacher's Training" in connection with church work was dwelt upon.

The election of officers of the organization will take place at the next meeting.

WAGE SCALE TOPIC OF DISCUSSION

Atlantic City, July 9.—The alternative question of a reduced wage scale with full time work or the present rate of pay with only about half time work was discussed by the delegates of the annual convention of the National Brotherhood of Operative Pottery in session at Odd Fellows' Hall here. Many of the delegates in attendance spoke of the serious condition in which the workers in the industry now find themselves. It was pointed out that the industry had been hard hit by the present period of depression and general desire to seek a short cut to normal conditions.

It was the prevailing opinion however, among the delegates that nothing should be done which would prevent the executive board from driving the best bargain possible when they meet the operators August 1.

ROCKEFELLER PLAYS GOLF UNDER SHADE

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 9.—John D. Rockefeller celebrated his 82nd birthday yesterday by playing a round of golf under an umbrella.

This latest addition to the aged financier's golf equipment was a concession to the weather. Although the temperature hovered between 80 and 90 and high humidity made it increasingly uncomfortable, he insisted on making his daily round of the links on his Pocantico Hills estate. Like the mikado, however, he was followed by an umbrella bearer, who perspired freely trying to keep pace with his employer and to protect him against the scorching rays of the sun.

Bellevue, July 9.—Mrs. Earl Houchins is in a hospital here suffering from gangrene that developed from blood poisoning as a result of mosquito bites. An operation may be necessary to save her life.

ROACHES STOP ALARM CLOCK

The alarm clock on the telephone switchboard at Police Headquarters, turned a sad and lopsided face to the public.

Its hands were idle, its face soiled, its tin uniform battered, its pristine beauty destroyed. Strange, for an alarm clock, its brass innards had given up the unequal struggle, and its former tick-tick was silent. It presented a forlorn sight.

Chief of Police M. E. Graham gazed at the time piece sadly. He had contracted rheumatism from pulling his watch out of his pocket to register calls from police boxes. Suddenly he seized the decrepit ticker.

With a deft movement, the Chief wrenched the insides from the clock and shook them vigorously. Half a dozen roaches dropped out and sashayed for safety while the Chief's feet beat a tattoo on the floor in their wake. "Those blamed roaches stop the clock every little bit," said the Chief, as the time-piece took up its song and went merrily ticking away the minutes.

Moral—Who has a sample of roach poison they want to experiment with?

Styles BY LENORE

Notwithstanding the charming novelties in sport wear, such as the knitted one-piece frock, the knitted middy and skirt costume, the variety of sleeveless jumpers or dresses with capes to match, either in knitted styles or in beautiful homespun or other warm weight materials, the sweater retains almost its old-time place in the summer outfit.

And while there are few important developments in style that are new, many of the sweaters show an elaboration of weave that differentiates them from the styles of previous seasons.

Perhaps the newest note in this seasons sweater is the straight-cross neck. In some models this is modified by being somewhat rounded. Chiffon wool sweaters particularly are shown with this new neck. A maple-colored camel's hair sweater was featured with the straight across neck finished with a border of Roman stripe, which was also knitted into the bottom and on the sleeves. This model shown in the sketch was about 23 inches long. Coat models are usually about 27 inches. The navy blue sweater in the sketch is this length. It is a Tuxedo model of silk fibre interwoven with metal thread and contributes a very good looking accessory for an older woman.

STEINFELS WILL NOT ACCEPT STATE JOB

L. Steinfeld, Republican, of this city, will not accept the position of Deputy State Fire Marshal tendered to him by Governor Harry L. Davis.

Although the rumored appointment of Mr. Steinfeld to this official position has gone forth, the local man denies it emphatically.

In a conference with Governor Davis several days ago, Mr. Steinfeld told the executive that he would not accept the office if he was appointed. It is believed however, that the appointment had already gone through, and had reached the press associations, before it could be stopped, thus starting the rumor regarding Mr. Steinfeld's appointment, which he has refused to accept.

It is believed that Mr. Steinfeld will not accept the position because it would require him leaving Xenia and traveling considerably.

BOYS CONFESS THEY LIED AT HEARING

Wilbur Honaker, 17, and John Crawford, 17, both colored, who were taken to the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield, Friday, by Probation Officer Joseph Watts, admitted to their custodian that they had lied at the hearing before Juvenile Judge J. Carl Marshall Thursday in an attempt to implicate Paul Honaker, colored.

After confessing to the charge of attempting to wreck two Pennsylvania railroad trains east of Xenia, Monday night to officers who made the arrest, the boys changed their story at the hearing Thursday, charging that Paul Honaker, was involved in the attempt and that he had placed the iron on the track to wreck the west bound express.

Honaker was brought into Court and questioned during the hearing, but his answers satisfied the Court and Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson, that the boys' story was not true, and that Paul Honaker was innocent. This the two boys admitted Friday to Probation Officer Watts while on their way to the penal institution, saying that they attempted to involve Paul Honaker because they had a grudge against him.

The boys were given an indeterminate sentence to the Reformatory and will be wards of the Court until they are 21 years of age.

With my markers set in triangular shape, giving me a long, medium and short hole I made it my habit each morning to practice twice around the markers—that is, going to the right and to the left twice with the half dozen balls. That made 72 shots with that club and required about three-quarters of an hour's time. This practicing I usually did between six and seven o'clock in the morning, because I had to be at work in the city at a quarter of nine. This presumes living at or near a golf club. Of course any time of the day would do, but I have always practiced at that time, not only because I love the hour, but because school hours and business hours alike fitted into that time.

Fortunately for me my business has allowed me to come out from town on the four o'clock car, reaching the course at 5:15 in time for about nine holes of the long hours of light. If, for any reason, I had to omit either the nine holes or the practice it was the former that was passed up.

After the nine holes I would take one of my markers, get my two dozen balls and go out to practice with the different clubs. I particularly advise this triangle idea, for I think it trains the eye for direction better than a single caddy standing out. My practice last summer was to hit twelve careful midiron shots; twelve careful full jigger shots (then the boy would bring them in), and I would then play twelve careful cleek shots; then twelve careful midiron shots, then twelve careful full jigger shots and twelve careful cleek shots. That made twenty-four shots each with a cleek, midiron and jigger and I also made up my full iron practice. I may say here that I never practice my wooden clubs for I play them exactly as I do my full irons. It makes me think that a golfer must know how to play his shots but his muscles must be so trained that they respond at once to any demand he may put upon them.

Further methods which were successful with me in playing golf by

Questions and Answers

Question—Should one take the same stance in playing with a brassy that he takes in playing with a driver?

Answer—Yes.

Question—In playing out of a bunker A says that if one has a reasonably good chance he should try for distance. B insists that the player should simply try to get out of the bunker. Which is correct?

Answer—The conservative steady player will content himself with getting out and not try for distance. In the long run this policy is best.

Several numbers were sung by Mrs. Otto Tharpe, and Mrs. Fred Nelson, including "I Will Not Forget Thee," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and "Savior, Pilot Me."

BRINGING UP FATHER

FORMER RESIDENT OF COUNTY BURIED

Funeral services for Mrs. Harriet Swisher, 63, wife of John W. Swisher, who passed away at her home at 126 Hickory Street, Dayton, Monday morning, were held at the residence at 9:30 Wednesday morning in charge of the Rev. J. F. Haber, pastor of Parks Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Swisher was a former Greene County woman, being a daughter of the late Jacob Kneel, of Spring Valley. She had been a sufferer for more than two years of heart trouble which later developed into dropsy.

Besides her husband and adopted daughter, Mrs. Clarence Coons, she leaves the following brothers and sisters, Mrs. Mary Martin, of Spring Valley; Mrs. Anna Dakin, of Dayton; Mrs. June Marlatt, of Mount Holly; William Kneel, of Reno, Nevada; George and Samuel Kneel, of Spring Valley.

Mrs. Swisher was laid to rest in Spring Valley cemetery. The pallbearers were, George and Samuel Kneel, Raymond Shaw, Fred Hoyle, George Marlatt and George Dakin.

FORD PLANT BUILDS 108,952 CARS IN JUNE

Detroit, July 9.—During the month of June, the Ford Motor company, through its Detroit factories and 22 assembly plants throughout the country reached the production of 108,952 Ford cars and trucks setting up a new high record for one month.

Production of Ford cars and trucks has been steadily increasing since early spring, and shows substantial gains over the same period last year. The second quarter of 1921 viz. April, May and June shows an output of 311,796 Ford cars, and trucks against 220,878 for the same three months of last year or a new increase of 80,918.

The estimated output of the Ford factories for July calls for 109,000 cars and trucks, or a production of 4360 a day for 25 days. Since the assembling of cars is being handled during an eight hour work day only the hourly output will be 545 cars. In other words, one Ford car or truck leaves the assembly line every 6 1-2 seconds.

MORE ANSWERED LETTERS
Constant Reader—"What caused the chili sauce that I made last year, to sour? Was it some trouble with the paraffine? I put the paraffine on the sauce while it was still warm. I had the same trouble with it."

Answer: Without a doubt, your incorrect sealing caused the trouble. In the first place never put on the paraffine until the contents of the jar or glass is quite cold. And in the second place, it is better to put chili sauce in a bottle cork the bottle and then dip the bottle-head into very hot melted paraffine thus covering cork and half the bottle-neck. Or you could make your chili sauce and put it into hot, sterilized glass jars (the kind that has a glass top held on by a wire) at once as soon as it has finished cooking then seal the jars completely, not waiting for the sauce to cool. Do your pears this way too. Use new rubbers on the jars.

F. Z.—"I have lost the excellent recipe you published recently for Walnut Cake. Will you kindly repeat it? I tried it and it was fine."

Answer: Walnut Cake (this is also a reply to Mrs. W. J.): Cream 1-2 cup of butter, add 1 cup of granulated sugar slowly, then 3 egg yolks well beaten, 1-2 cup of milk and 1 3-4 cups of flour which have been mixed and sifted with 2 1-2 teaspoons of baking powder. Fold in the whites of 2 eggs stiffly beaten and add 3-4 of a cup of walnut meats broken into fairly small pieces. Turn into a buttered loaf-cake pan which is about four by eight inches in size, measuring the bottom of the pan) and bake for 45 minutes in a moderate oven. This will make a high loaf. Frost with ordinary boiled icing, made with the left over egg-white and press perfect half walnut meats on top while warm to decorate it.

Housekeeper—"Can you suggest something that can be made in a casserole?"

Answer: Next Monday, July 11, I shall devote an entire article to casserole cookery. Don't miss it.

Mrs. G.—"I went to a guest dinner recently and green peas were served cooked with mint in some way. They were delicious. How is this done?"

Answer: You refer to Sautéed Mint Peas: Boil 1 pint of shelled green peas until nearly tender, in just enough water to cook them in. Then drain off the water and turn the peas into a saucepan in which two ounces of butter have been melted; add 1-2 teaspoon of finely chopped mint and saute for five minutes. Then serve at once.

Bride-Housekeeper—"How is kohlrabi cooked? My husband is planting it in our garden."

Answer: This vegetable must be watched closely lest it get too old. If this happens, do not try to use it. But if cooked in its prime it is delicious, combining the flavors of a mild turnip and the cauliflower. Pare, quarter and cook it until very tender in as little water as possible. (the casserole offers a good way of cooking it with cup or two of water) and serve it seasoned with salt, pepper and butter. Or you can cut it into dice and serve it with cream sauce, plain or escalloped with a layer of crumbs on top.

Other members of the committee are: Judges Alfred B. Benedict, Hamilton county; William S. Griffith Butler county; Milton Clark, Warren county and Hugh Nichols, Clermont county.

VERA WRITES KEITH HER ULTIMATUM CHAPTER 88

The letter I had left for Keith had taken me hours to write. Many beginnings had I destroyed before I felt I had expressed myself, my feelings as I wanted to. Not that I was satisfied with what I had written—far from it. But it was the best I could do.

I visualized Keith as he read, saying to himself, that I was hysterical and would soon be back. Not once did I think of him as feeling badly or grieving; only as angry and impatient, and made more so by Margaret's sneers.

In my letter I told him of all I had felt and suffered since my marriage because of my position in his home—which was no home for me. I put down in black and white, in crisp short sentences all the slights, all the humiliations, the ceaseless disregard of my feelings. It was easy to remember them all, they were seared upon my mind and heart. As I wrote every instance stood out sharply defined in my memory, and loomed large as I related them.

I told him how my love for him had kept me quiet under the daily humiliation to which Margaret had subjected me. I also told him how proud of him I had been when we were first married; how I had loved him then. I made no mention of my present longing, although my heart ached for love of him.

I recounted how I had often compared my position as a wife with that of other married women who managed their own homes, co-partners with their husbands in that they discussed everyday affairs together, instead of being shut out as I had been, to allow the husband to make a confident of another woman—even a sister should not take the place of a wife, I had added.

I went over my agony when I lost my baby. I told him how all hope of happiness had gone with her. How I had prayed to die, too.

I spoke of my love for Gloria, and Irene. I impressed upon him that I did not begrudge anything he had done for them, nor for Margaret either had he at the same time given me my rightful place in his home. And as regarded his pocket book, he knew I was not mercenary, so I had no fear of being misunderstood in speaking of the financial embarrassment he caused me by insisting I allow Margaret to spend his money not only for herself and her children, but to also dictate to me what I should wear; how much it should cost.

I spoke of the little things—after a bit. His sister's refusal to allow me to have the help of a servant although he paid more than half their wages, as well as the other expenses of the house. I told of being denied my expression of preference for any certain dish, even when not well. I mentioned the times we had dined out, when I would have loved to help order, at least to order what I wanted, and had been obliged to eat what Margaret wanted, because she was "more experienced."

All these things seemed very trite and at times I was tempted to tear up my letter and only say I could not live with Margaret any longer so had gone away. But I knew he never would understand. That unless I let him see how the constant pin-pricks of my daily life had hurt me he would consider I had gone away in haste, angry only at what he had said.

I had not gone for that reason. His: "Very well, then go!" had been but a culmination of all that had happened since my marriage. It had been the proverbial "last straw."

When I had recounted all that I could of my unhappiness, I added: "If you ever want me back, Keith, badly enough, remember to give me a home of my own if it is only two rooms. I will come. But never shall I return save as to take my rightful place as mistress of your home—my rightful place as your wife. Never unless I can be assured of my full rights as wife, will I return. Neither will I ever consent to live for one day in the house with your sister. There are some things no woman with any pride can endure beyond a certain point. I have reached that point. Your sister's sneers, her open dislike of me her influence over you, the confidence between you when I was shut out, the caresses denied me, and given her, the thought for her which I missed. All these things have steeled my heart against you so that loneliness is preferable to the life I have lived.

"Thanks to your dear father I have my legacy. I have drawn it all. It was mine, I had the right. When it is gone—if not before I can earn enough to live. And I'd rather live in poverty alone, than in luxury with your sister, or any other persons under the same, have tried to be a good wife. If ever you want me advertise for one week in the 'Times'. But not unless you are willing to agree to my terms."

INJURES EAR WHILE SWIMMING IN CREEK

Inhaling water through his nostrils, as he was suddenly immersed while swimming in Caesar creek near the Wilmington pike, Thursday afternoon, Otis Pramer, of Home avenue, sustained painful injuries to his left ear.

Mr. Pramer was "ducked" when a companion dove into the water near him, pulling him backwards into the pool. A sudden intake of breath drew considerable water through his nostrils, back of the left ear drum, causing him intense pain. Dr. C. G. McPherson recommended a specialist and Dr. Lawrence Shields is using treatment in an attempt to absorb the water. The unusual accident is causing Mr. Pramer much pain.
